Hello Professor Umaly,

I am planning a trip to Indonesia to report on several higher education issues, and would like to ask you for news from there. (My newspaper has asked me to report on the case of Safwan Idris, ex-rector of Ar Raniry State Institute of Islamic Studies, in Bandah Aceh, who was murdered last year, apparently for his efforts to promote a peaceful resolution to the conflict between separatist rebels and government forces. I also intend to go on to East Timor to report on the new university there.)

I am taking the liberty of writing you to ask what other

Indonesian higher education is dealing with. Also could you kindly recommend any people I might contact in Jakarta, Bandung, or elsewhere? (for example, Is there a university rectors association?).

You may remember, we spoke last summer, when I was preparing an article on the dominance of English in higher education around the world.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
